A few words first

About this coloring pack

Calm Wings is a self-reflection coloring pack for general wellbeing. It is not medical advice, diagnosis, or treatment, and it supports, not replaces, care from a licensed professional. If something in here doesn't feel right for you, skip it.

If you need help now

In the US	Call or text 988 (Suicide & Crisis Lifeline), or text HOME to 741741. Free and confidential, 24/7.
Emergency	Call 911, or your local emergency number, if you or someone else is in danger.
Outside the US	Find a free helpline in your country at findahelpline.com .

Terms of use

This printable is for your personal use. You're welcome to print as many copies as you need for yourself and your household, at home or at a print shop.

Please don't share, resell, or upload the file, or sell printed copies. If you'd like to use it with a group, class, or clients, send a message through the shop and we'll talk about it.

Thank you for supporting a small shop.

Printing

See the "How to print" guide that came with your download for paper, double-sided printing, and print-shop tips. Colored pencils work best on the coloring pages.

Color to calm

Coloring gives busy hands and a busy mind one small, gentle thing to do. There's no right way to do it and nothing to finish. These ideas can help you settle in.

1

Pick a few colors first

Three to five colors you like together. Fewer choices means less to decide.

2

Start small

Color one wing, or one section, then check in with how you feel.

3

Breathe with it

Slow strokes, slow breaths. Try breathing out a little longer than you breathe in.

4

Let go of perfect

Going outside the lines is fine. So is leaving a page half done.

5

Make it a ritual

The same time, a warm drink, a favorite playlist. Your body learns the cue.

Paper and pencils

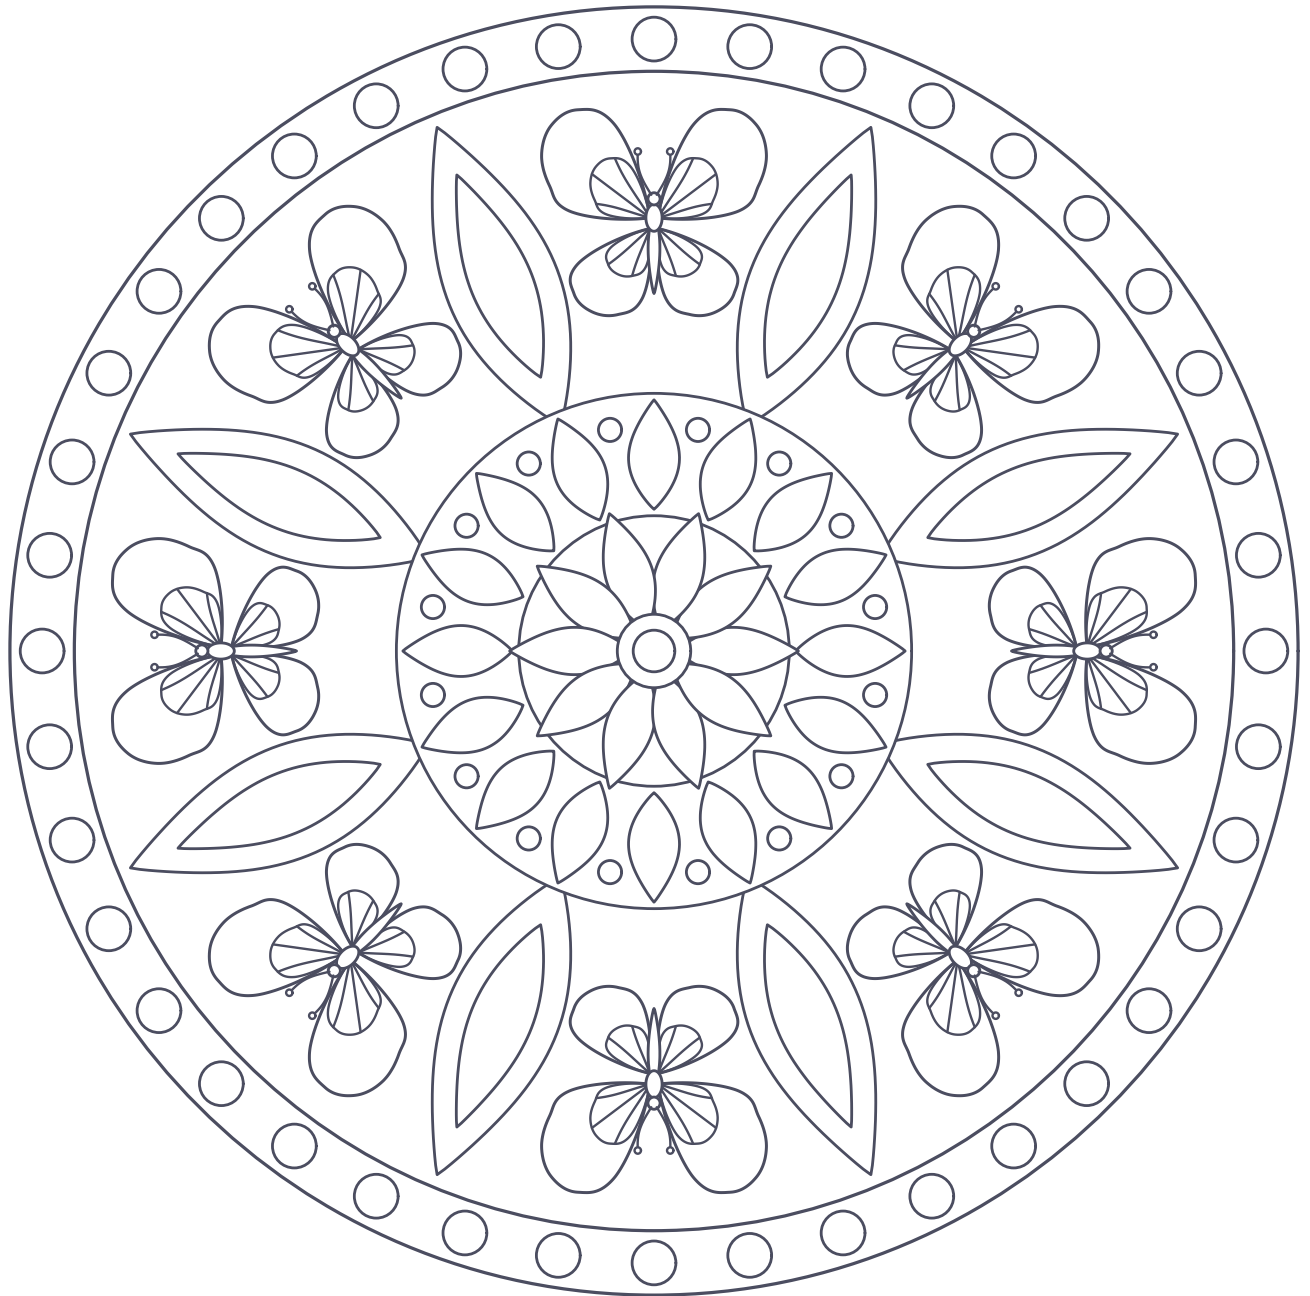

Print the coloring pages on one side only, so color doesn't show through. Heavier paper (32 lb / 120 gsm or cardstock) feels nicer and takes more layers. Colored pencils work best; markers may bleed on thin paper, so slip a spare sheet underneath.
